

2022 Stahlman Beekeeping E-mail Notes Issue #33a

The notes are a bit late this week. Time is flying by. And it has been hot. Saturday was a day working with beekeepers I mentor. Finally some cool weather. I have some inspection work coming up on Monday but we now need to deal with rainy weather. The bees were calm and flying yesterday making inspections pleasant.

I hope this summer was good for you and your bees. Some beekeepers are reporting good crops of honey. I am winding down my bee season and I am thinking about a vacation. I have been feeding my bees, applying mite treatments and just making sure each hive has a good laying queen.
