

2022 Stahlman Beekeeping E-mail Notes Issue #7

Time is flying so fast around here. I am building bee boxes, expanding hive numbers, and I just bought a trailer to take my bees to Sourwood honey this summer. I am suffering from sticker shock when I went to buy bee equipment this week. I remember the days when I bought a pallet of deep supers from Fred Rossman for what I remember was Cypress deep hive bodies for $7.00 each. Pine hive bodies are selling for $20.00 in today's market. Add frames to that and the cost of a deep 10 frame hive body is close to $ 50.00.

Be positive -- it not the money spent to keep bees -- it is the joy and life lesson learned keeping honeybees!
