

2022 Stahlman Beekeeping E-mail Notes Issue #52a

I hope this message and Beekeeping Notes have provided you with something of value for 2022. I will continue writing the notes for 2023. The 2023 notes will have a new heading and a side bar. I have looked back over many years of beekeeping. I know that new beekeepers will be seeking a lot of what all of you have learned from the many sources of information available.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to all of you that share these notes with others. My mailing list continues to grow. I continue to believe that keeping bees is going to be challenging no matter what you do to keep bees.

I hope to cast just a little more light on a subject that has driven me with what is called "Bee Fever".
