

2024 Stahlman Beekeeping E-mail Notes Issue #39a

Cooler weather is on its way. I am pleased to hear from some of you regarding the material I included in my newsletter. It is always a challenge to write about current conditions when not much is going on in our hives. I have included a winter check list but I would assume that most of you are ahead and already completed much of what needs to be done.

From this point forward, I am going to look back at material I have published which might be reviewed for the value it had. Six years seems like a long time to have published these notes and one job for this winter is to go back and somehow try to consolidate all the topics into a single document. For those new to this newsletter, I am trying to help you go back and check past issue topics. Currently there are some clubs that have put these articles up on line and finding topic material is difficult.
