

2026 Stahlman Beekeeping E-mail Notes Issue #19a

With colder weather on the way, there will be only an issue for October, one for November and one for December. I am going to be reading some of the books in my library and sharing information in some cases written years ago. The changes in keeping bees in present times has become more expensive and demanding than in the past. But there is still lessons that can be had from these old books.

I hope this cooler weather helps you work your bees. If you live in the Raleigh area and would like to work with a Vietnam Vet keeping his hive - both of you will benefit. He will be starting over and like myself, has reached a point where working bees is not easy. This would be a great option for someone just getting into beekeeping. I have a great deal of respect for older beekeepers that need help.
